

HARSH CRITICISM OF SHUMM'S TALK

Teachers in County Institute Condemn Remarks of Brownstown Lutheran Minister.

ADOPT STRONG RESOLUTIONS

Recommend That Immediate Steps be Taken to Stamp Out all Forms of German Propaganda.

Resolutions which were adopted by the teachers of Jackson county, at the closing session of the institute, this afternoon, condemned and disapproved the talk which was made by the Rev. Otto Schumm, pastor of the Lutheran church at Brownstown, before the institute Tuesday morning. The address of Mr. Schumm received more attention than probably any other address which was made during the week's session. The matter has been widely discussed and Harry B. Henderson, county superintendent, was called before the county council to explain why he invited a teacher of a parochial school to participate in an institute conducted for the teachers of the public schools. It was rumored here that Mr. Henderson would be asked to resign his office, but he stated that the matter was not put up to him in that light and he was quite sure that the criticism was not so general as reported here.

The Rev. Mr. Schumm, who was invited by the county superintendent, to conduct the devotional exercises and to make a short talk to the institute on Tuesday morning is alleged to have declared that the parochial schools were superior to the public schools and cited illustrations which he believed were in point. It is said that the minister asserted that Napoleon and Voltaire were educated in parochial schools and that their training was in the right direction. The teachers interpreted the remark to mean that Napoleon's training was in the direction of world domination and when the minister named Napoleon and Voltaire, a Brownstown citizen who was attending the institute, shouted "And the Kaiser too."

In the resolutions which were passed at the closing session of the institute the teachers condemned the remarks of the Lutheran minister "because he has a wrong estimate of parochial schools" and also that he refused to condemn the kaiser when his attention was called to it. His speech was also criticized bitterly because he did not mention the American boys who are fighting at the front either in his address or in his prayer.

In speaking of the talk of the minister, Mr. Henderson stated that the reference to the parochial schools

BROWNSTOWN BUSINESS MEN DISCUSS RECENT REQUEST

Decision as to Use of German Over
The Company.

The business men of Seymour held a meeting Thursday night to discuss the recent request of the telephone company that the use of German over the telephone lines be discontinued. The matter was presented from every angle but no decision was made and the matter was left to the discretion of the company with the recommendation that if the request was enforced at Brownstown that it be made general throughout the county. The management of the telephone company stated today that it would make the request general on account of the many recommendations from subscribers. Only four objections have come to the company formally against enforcing the order. During the last few days several letters from Jackson county boys who are in the service have been received by the company. All the letters commended the stand it had taken and urged the management to enforce the request.

CHILD IS INJURED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO TREE

Little Verna Mow, of Cleveland, O., Taken To The Local Hospital for Treatment.

Verna Mow, the little daughter of Mrs. Rose Mow, of Cleveland, O., sustained a painful gash on the forehead, Thursday night, when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a tree near Rockford. The little girl was with her mother and Max Mow, a brother-in-law accompanied them. The car was driven by a chauffeur. The little girl was brought to the Schneck Memorial Hospital for treatment. Several stitches were taken to close up the wound in her forehead. After the wound was dressed the party continued the trip to Indianapolis.

The torpedoing occurred two hundred miles off the French coast.

MANY EXPECTED TO ENROLL TOMORROW

Election Registration Board to Hold
Session at City Building
Saturday.

HOURS FROM 8 A. M. TO 9 P. M.

This Will Give Local Voters a Splendid Opportunity to File Their Blanks.

Several hundred voters are expected to register at the city building tomorrow when two members of the county election registration board will hold an all day session here. This is the first time that the board has arranged to meet in this city and it is announced that no other session will be held in this city before the period for registration closes. There are several hundred voters in this township alone who have failed to qualify for the election in November and it is believed that the majority of them will take advantage of this opportunity to register. No voter is entitled to cast his ballot in the fall election unless he first enrolls with the county board.

Two members of the county board will be here for the session and will be ready at 8 o'clock to receive blanks. The session will close at 9 p. m. In anticipation of a large number of voters, several notaries have been engaged and will be present

A number of other local men have been notified that they have been accepted for this branch of the Y. M. C. A. work and are expecting to receive orders to report any day.

YANKEES ON HEELS OF FLEEING HUNS

Indications Are That Germans Retreat Will Go Beyond The Chemin-Des Dames.

AMERICANS REACH AISNE

Bausieux Shelled and Allied Support
Troops Are Moving Up to Main Battle Line.

(By Fred S. Ferguson, United Press Correspondent.)

With the Americans on the Aisne, September 6—Indications are that the German retreat possibly will go beyond the Chemin-Des-Dames to the Hindenburg line. In addition to advancing to the Aisne, the allies are moving in a northeasterly direction, furnishing the possibility of another movement to crowd the boches off the plateau to the east, from which German observation posts overlook higher ground from the Aisne to the Vesle.

Bausieux was being shelled by the Americans today. Allied support troops were moving up to the main battle line along the plateau's northern slopes which dip down to the Aisne. The Americans are maintaining constant contact with the enemy. As they advance north of the Vesle they found that all ravines had been filled with gas, in an effort to slow up the pursuit.

From this point of vantage, Vauxcerc, Bausieux, Banzy and other towns now behind the allied lines are

By United Press.
Washington, September 6—America's annual tax bill after the war will be at least $4,000,000,000, Representative Ketchin, chairman of the ways and means committee, predicted today, opening debate on the eight billion dollars war tax bill. A billion a year for pensions, a billion more for the army and navy and $1,250,000,000 on war bonds will take the bulk of $4,000,000,000 each year for years after peace, he declared.

ENEMY BURNS VILLAGES IN RETREAT IN PICARDY

Clouds of Smoke and Flaring Fires Show Path That is Taken by German in Get-away—Marked Decrease in Shelling Shows That Huns Realize the Seriousness of Their Situation and Are Trying to Reach the Hindenburg Line—Expected to Make Another Stand There—More Than Half a Dozen Villages Between The Vesle and The Aisne Are in American Possession.

WITHDRAWAL CONTINUES ON WHOLE LINE

By United Press.
With the Americans on the Aisne, September 6—More than half a dozen villages between the Vesle and the Aisne are now in American hands. Our troops are still following up the German withdrawal. The main American line today was approaching the canal beyond Dhusiel, Longueval and Revillon, and thence moving up in a northeasterly direction.

Germans are reported holding portions of the canal in considerable rear guard strength and sharp fighting is in progress at these places where the enemy is expected to exert considerable effort to slow up the pursuit.

The American right which has not yet reached the river continues to meet opposition from machine gun squads aside from the usual shell fire.

By United Press.
With the British Armies in France, September 6—Clouds of smoke and flaring fires from burning villages caused by exploding ammunition dumps all through Picardy between the canal Du Nord and the Hindenburg line today indicated the Germans were again moving backward.

A marked decrease in enemy shelling made it apparent that the Germans realize it is necessary to retreat. Possibly they are already withdrawing for a stand behind the Hindenburg line.

The right of General Humbert's army operating between St. Quentin, Ham and LaFere has nearly reached Chauny which is being encompassed from the north by a flanking movement towards St. Simon, a mile and a half east of Ham.

General Mangin's men today still further lessened the value of the Chemines Des Dames position that the Germans are endeavoring to hold by accentuating their tenacious infiltration of the defiles in the groves opposite Laon.

American divisions are bordering on the south bank of the Aisne.

The French statement said "During the night we continued to advance on the whole front between the Somme and the Vesle. We continued to cross the Somme in the region of Epanceourt, south of Peronne and five miles east of Chaulnes. Further south we pushed forward at several points until we reached the Ham-Peronne road south of Ham. We occupied Plessis Patte D'Oie and Berlanecourt.

"We have passed out of Givray, Culloul, Grepigny and Abbecourt. These points are west and southwest of Chauny.

"North of the Ailette we reached the tableland north of Danricourt and the borders of Sinceny. South of the Ailette we are bordering on the Vauxaillon ravine.

"On the Vesle front the Americans carried their lines to the borders of Ville en Prayers, just south of the Aisne northeast of Fismes, on the slopes northeast of Revillon, and occupied Glennes."

Encircled from the northwest, southwest and south, the important junction point of Ham is virtually taken, according to dispatches from the front. The French and Americans have reached the Aisne river on a front of ten miles. A continuous advance on the whole front between the Somme and the Vesle was announced by the war office.

Americans have taken Glennes and are approaching the Aisne at new places northeast of Fismes.

LaFere, the German supply base north of Soissons, is reported in flames. Between the Oise and the Ailette, the French are approaching St. Gobain massif.

Striking straight for St. Quentin, the British have forced crossings on the Somme, south of Peronne and advanced nearly four miles at some points, Field Marshal Haig reported. Atthies, on the Amiens-St. Quentin road, has been reached. The British thrust eastward from Peronne, advancing a mile and a half. Several towns along the Somme south of Peronne were taken.

Neuve Chapelle, in Flanders, has been captured by the British, according to reports from the battle front. This represents an advance of two miles. French and British have crossed the Du Nord canal along the entire front, with the exception of two points.

PHYSICALLY FIT MEN CAN NOT HOLD OFFICE JOBS

Exceptions Made in Cases of Technical Experts and Those With Dependents.

By United Press.

Washington, Sept. 6—General War department orders issued today required that for desk jobs, only technically qualified men, or men unfit for active service or deferred for dependency shall be inducted. Physically fit men skilled in highly specialized occupations may be inducted for bureau service when it is shown that limited service men cannot be obtained for the place.

Orders have been issued to replace all men of the 21 to 31 draft who would be classified in Class One and are now assigned to office work by physically disqualified men or men with dependents.

SUCCESSES ARE DUE TO "EAT-EM-UP" SPIRIT IN U. S.

Three Reasons Given by an Army
Official for Germany's Repeated Defeats.

(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff

Washington, Sept. 6—American eat-em-up spirit, multiplied by more than 1,600,000 is the real answer to the ease with which the Germans have been pressed back since the Marne combat. This, in substance, was the view of a prominent general staff officer, today in answer to the oft-repeated question: "Why is it that the German who had never tasted a real disaster, is now being shunted back almost at will?" said:

"The reasons are three fold. First superiority of the allies, secured

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Two million bibles have been distributed to the soldiers by the Army Y. M. C. A. at home and abroad.

During a single recent month it was estimated that more than 50,000 soldier boys were enrolled in Y. M. C. A. French classes.

In the first nine months of the United States' entrance into the war the Army Y. M. C. A. gave away 360,000,000 sheets of writing paper to enlisted men and officers.

"The Y. M. C. A. is the only place in Mesopotamia where the men can get any home life in the evening," says an artillery officer in that country. "In Bagdad itself great brick buildings are now available and are used for the accommodation of men and officers."

What the War Moves Mean

(By J. W. T. Mason, United Press War Expert.)

New York, September 6—Resumption of the German retreat from the Vesle river has been forced on von Hindenburg at this time by the double necessity for finding reserves for the operations in Flanders, and preventing the Americans and French from outflanking the southern German line by an attack along the Chemin Des Dames.

The retreat now started has for the moment been confined to the western sector of the Vesle front. This is a dangerous position.

The German line between Fismes, and Rheims which has not yet begun to move backward to conform to the retirement west of Fismes, and Rheims has already started to fall into a wedge formation, with its apex at Fismes.

The Americans and French, therefore, are now in a position to bring heavy pressure to bear on the Fismes-Rheims sector while pushing the line west of Fismes still further northward.

Von Hindenburg must quickly rectify this condition or suffer exceptionally severe losses. The partial retirement of the Vesle army has given full notice to Marshal Foch that the rest of this front will eventually be moved back in keeping with the retreat west of Fismes.

The Germans will increase their peril if they attempt to stop their retreat temporarily north of the Aisne. The area between the Aisne and the Chemin Des Dames, which parallels the Aisne ten miles to the northward, is a very hazardous one.

The Americans and the French are now at the western entrance to the Chemin Des Dames. From that position they are in a better position to outflank the Germans north of the Aisne than when the German line clung to the Vesle.

For this reason, von Hindenburg must continue to fall back beyond the Chemin Des Dames itself. He is probably counting on moving to the vicinity of Laon. Here the German railways must be protected for the time being until the heavy guns and supplies of munitions can be moved further north toward the Belgian frontier.

clearly visible to enemy observers. Baulx was being shelled today. I could see the Americans running to cover as clouds of smoke and dust rose from exploding shells. Support troops were visible moving up to the main battle line along the plateau's northern slopes which dip down to the Aisne.

Along the ridge of the plateau, shells broke intermittently but the quietness of the Vesle valley was more marked than the noise from the fighting. Light traffic was to be seen on the roads north of the Vesle. South of the stream, however, men and wagons were moving up rapidly over the roads which were screened by both French and German camouflage.

A pressing demand for men as well as the allied threat to the flank of the Chemin des Dames defense line is facing a German withdrawal which is likely to wipe out the last vestige of the spring gains west of Rheims. The retreat will probably continue north of the Aisne possibly with sharp fighting and attempted stands here and there.

The Americans are maintaining constant contact with the enemy. Extensive preparations were made for the withdrawal, smoke from burning dumps clouding the sky.

As the Americans advanced north of the Vesle they found that all ravines had been filled with gas in an effort to slow up the chase. A heavy smoke screen was used along the Aisne from A-Dary five miles, concealing the movements northward.

Following American patrols, combat elements advanced up the almost impregnable heights on the north bank of Vesle. They encountered strong resistance from machine gun nests. These groups of Germans were quickly mopped up. Caves and quarries in which German stragglers lurked were cleaned out with hand grenades. Enemy rear guards were quickly handled by the Yankees who crossed the Vesle and advanced in a northeasterly direction, leaving some towns flanked. Meantime American guns, horses and caissons were soon going forward, raising clouds of dust on the roads as they pushed up close to the Vesle.

Hun airplanes repeatedly attacked American infantry, sweeping low to use their machine guns and dropping bombs on our troops.

Brother of Anthony McGinty Dies.

Andrew McGinty, of North Vernon, aged seventy-four years, died at the Deaconess Hospital in Indianapolis Monday, from a complication of diseases and age infirmities. He was born in Ireland in 1854 and came to this country with his parents when a boy of five. About fifty years ago he with his wife moved to Jennings county. About five years ago he disposed of his farm and moved to North Vernon. The funeral was held Thursday morning from St. Mary's church, North Vernon, and the burial was in the Catholic cemetery. Six sons survive.

Mr. McGinty was a brother of Anthony McGinty, of this city. Mrs. McGinty, who was a sister of Mrs. Anthony McGinty, of this city, died about five months ago at her home in North Vernon.

Mrs. Jacob Stewart and daughter, Hazel of Indianapolis, came Thursday evening for a brief visit with her son, Robert Ruddick and to visit another son, Elmer Ruddick, who left this morning for Camp Taylor.

It is a mistake to look upon War Savings Stamps as small change gleaners intended only to raise a few of the innumerable millions needed to finance the great undertaking to which we are committed. We do not measure the value of these investment mediums by the amount of money so obtained. We measure it rather by the universal nature of the appeal which the Stamps make, an appeal that brings the message and the meaning of the war to every individual of thinking age in the United States of America.

FINE TONIC FOR WOMEN

Is What This Lady Thinks About Cardui. It Made Her Well.

Springfield, Mo.—Mrs. Alice Fletcher, of this address, writes: "I cannot say too much in praise of Cardui, it has done so much for me. Shortly after my marriage, 14 years ago, I suffered terribly...with my back pain, and my limbs pained me so bad. And also I had such awful bearing-down pains, and I became very weak and could not hardly do my work..."

I went to my sister-in-law and she told me to get Cardui. So I took one bottle and it helped me so much, I got another bottle, and by the time I had taken the two bottles I was a well woman. I have never been troubled any more...I keep Cardui in my home...for I think it is a fine tonic for a woman raising a family.

I always take one or two bottles before and after my...for it strengthens me so, and has such good effects on my nervous system."

Weak women, worn out with the work and care of the home, need a tonic, strength-building medicine, like Cardui, the woman's tonic. NCB-2 ience, was put up in just 10 hours and 28 minutes from the time work started, at 7 o'clock in the morning.

The hospital is 150 feet long and 24 feet wide, with a 10½-foot porch the entire length of the building on one side.

When the work began on a post-hole had been dug and not a piece of timber was cut to size. At 7 o'clock, 130 laborers began to dig the post-holes. Circus day never witnessed such elaborate organization or quicker progress, although circus organization and speed in tent raising is proverbial.

Before 8 o'clock 434 carpenters, plumbers and electricians were at work, and by noon the roof was on. At 3:30 the electricians, plumbers, sheet-metal workers and pipe coverers had finished. An hour later only 88 carpenters were left on the job—finishing up—and at 5:28 the whole task was completed. The building was completely wired with lights ready to be switched on, and water was running in the pipes. Radiators were installed and connected, and fire extinguishers were hanging on the walls.

Mrs. Zelma Fountain Fishman, of Brownstown, was here this morning the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cox, enroute to Newport Rhode Island, where she will visit her husband, Melvin Fishman, who is stationed in the Navy Training school there.

Grandma Talks About Babies

Has a Large Circle of Listeners Who Profit by Her Wisdom and Experience.

In almost any community there is a grandma who knows Mother's Friend. Not only is she reminiscent of her own experience, but it was through her recommendation that so many expectant mothers derived the comfort and blessing of this famous remedy.

Mother's Friend is an external application prepared especially for expectant mothers after the formula of a noted family physician. It certainly has a wonderful effect in relieving tension brought about by expanding muscles, and is a most grateful encouragement to the woman awaiting motherhood.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles free, pliant and responsive. When baby arrives they expand easily, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally less.

Strain upon the nerves and ligaments is lessened and in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread, it is a season of calm repose and happy anticipation.

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and natural grace and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided the pain and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided.

Write the Bradford Regulator Co., Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their "Motherhood Book," so valuable to expectant mothers, and in the meantime do not by any chance fail to purchase a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist and thus fortify yourself against pain and discomfort. Mother's Friend should be applied night and morning with the utmost regularity.

The WAR

has taught one important thing to those who are willing to learn. It has made things cost more; and when we pay more for a thing we're apt to be more particular to know what we are getting. The war has taught that good quality pays in economy, though we have to pay more to get it.

Be Patriotic About Buying Clothes

You may not need new clothes this fall; if you can get along with what you have, save the money for LIBERTY BONDS or WAR SAVINGS STAMPS. If you have to buy, remember this:

You don't buy anything in which quality is more important than clothes; you ought to be very particular about what you get for your money, especially because it's so easy to make poor quality in clothes look very good, and there's plenty of poor quality to be had.

HART SCHAFFNER and MARX CLOTHES are one of the ways in which we serve; all Wool Fabrics, the best Tailoring, the most distinguished style; clothes that you can rely on, absolutely.

Such clothes as these, made carefully for service, are the best means of saving money for yourself and resources for the country.

The New Styles Are Economical

In regard to style, you'll find that they are as smart looking as ever; but there's greater simplicity in them and everything has been designed to save material and labor. You'll like the new models we're sure; we have many good things to show you.

was made while the speaker was discussing the necessity of soul and mind training. He was emphasizing, Henderson said, that it is as essential to train the soul as the mind and that this is given special attention in parochial schools while less attention is given in public schools.

The teachers in their resolutions especially thanked the Rev. C. H. Pinnick, H. H. Prince, the Rev. M. Foster and the Rev. Glen O. Mills who also spoke before the institute for their patriotic utterances.

The teachers further demanded that immediate steps be taken to stamp out all forms of German propaganda and made a plea that steps be taken to prohibit parochial schools unless they are placed under the supervision of the state or the courses of study be accepted by state school representatives. They urged that the war be fought to a conclusive peace so that German militarism will be forever crushed and the autocratic government of Germany be absolutely destroyed so that the United States can honorably take its place in the league of nations which will be formed when victory comes.

The instructors expressed themselves in favor of the teachers and unity law and asked school trustees and township trustees to limit the holiday vacation to Christmas day and the two days immediately preceding. They voted to abolish the old custom of giving treats to children at the holiday season as a war time measure.

The resolutions strongly approved the Boys' Working Reserve, the Red Cross and all other war time organizations the purpose of which is to strengthen the United States government in its right for freedom. Appreciation was extended to the various instructors and to the county superintendent for their services.

The resolutions were prepared by a committee of fourteen who were appointed by the county superintendent and were read by Miss Ada Manion. During the reading she was interrupted many times by enthusiastic cheering and encores and the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Dr. Horace Ellis, state superintendent, delivered an excellent address before the institute this morning. The week's program was carried out as previously announced with a few exceptions and the sessions have proved interesting and instructive.

HER REWARD

(By Marguerite Haggerty)

Situated on a lofty height, nestling amid a grove of nature's luxuriant pines and elms, stood an old-fashioned country mansion. On the shady veranda of this ideal beauty spot was seated a sweet-faced girl of seventeen. Her thoughts were not all sunshiny ones, for every once in a while there would flash across her fair countenance a mirthful smile, which, however, would soon become enveloped by a more serious expression. Julia Caverly was loved both home and abroad.

Julia had, one pet grievance. Every year she eagerly looked forward to spending her summer at River-view, but the only obstacle to mar her blissful reveries was the forbidding remembrance that her father could spend but one week each summer with them, as his business was such that he could not remain away for any longer period of time.

Suddenly Julia ran in from the porch, as she spied the postman. "Mamma, you know daddy promised to try and spend two weeks with us this summer. I feel sure that I will receive some welcome news from dear old dad today." She leaped in front of the good-natured letter carrier who, however, was not in the least surprised, for he had become accustomed to the young girl's impulsive manners. With a roguish smile she snatched the letter from his hand, and headed toward her mother with all possible speed. She hastily tore open the envelope and devoured the contents. All her joy had fled, as she threw the letter to the floor. "Oh, mamma, I cannot read it aloud. I think the very words would choke me. I don't see how business could be so pressing that daddy could not spare us at least one measly little week."

"Try to forget your troubles for the present, dear," replied her mother, "and run along and prepare for luncheon."

After lunch a bevy of her dearest girl friends arrived, and announced that their yacht was ready to start for a long trip down the river. "The party will start tomorrow," said one of the girls, "so Julia, I thought we would run over to remind you to be ready on time, so we can launch forth early in the morning." "How long do you intend to be away?" asked Julia. "It will be fully two weeks, my bonny lass," was the answer of the spokesman of the group, "so pack up a well-stocked wardrobe."

When the girls had departed Julia informed her mother that she intended to visit Mrs. Jackson, a dear old lady who had been an invalid for a number of years.

The pitiful eyes of the sick woman dilated with joy when she beheld in the doorway the face of her generous little benefactor. A soothing word and a gentle caress from Julia lightened the heart of many a lonely soul, but no love was ever more reciprocal than that which sprang up between Mrs. Jackson and Julia Caverly. A basket of tastefully prepared dainties was laid on the table, and after a confidential chat of an hour or so, Mrs. Jackson reluctantly bade good-by to her little friend.

The next morning, Julia, in high spirits, sat waiting with her baggage to join the merry band of sixteen that were due to arrive in a few minutes. Hearing the sound of running steps, she turned around quickly just as a little fellow hopped up in front of her. "Miss Caverly, do please come in a hurry; Mrs. Jackson is very sick." Julia did not stop to think of her own enjoyment for an instant. The message was unfolded to her mother, and she expressed her intention of leaving immediately to see the sick old lady. Mrs. Caverly protested with her daughter in vain, arguing that she, herself, would tend to the invalid's wants, and not to sacrifice her trip for the sake of being obstinate. Finally Julia overruled all her mother's objections.

That evening as Julia was returning home, after spending the day nursing her loved patient, her heart felt rather heavy, but as soon as she felt any pang of regret she would begin to hum a popular air and hasten her steps homeward. Mrs. Caverly felt exceedingly proud of her generous-hearted daughter that evening as she listened to her relating how Mrs. Jackson was resting very comfortably now, and that she would never forgive herself if she had neglected to respond to her pitiable appeal. Feeling quite fatigued, Julia sank into a lounging chair and soon fell fast asleep.

Creeping cautiously behind her chair, her father placed his hands gently over her eyes, while her mother, nearby, laughingly said: "Wake up, Julia, dear, and guess who your blindfolded is." "None other than my own dear daddy," exclaimed the excited girl. "Are you glad to see me, Julia, dear?" coaxingly asked her father. To reassure him of her sincere affection, Julia gave him a hug and a kiss. Her father chuckled with delight as he continued: "That was certainly a huge joke to send you that letter yesterday, but I wanted to completely surprise you by paying a full week's visit." "Daddy, you surely are a fine rogue. You can thank Mrs. Jackson, however, for seeing me here today. Why, I would be sailing far out on the water by this time, only her temporary sick spell detained me. But oh! Daddy, you old dear, I would gladly exchange any pleasure trip just to be with you."

NEW CANNING RECORD FOR AMERICA IS INDICATED

All Signs Point to Success of National Campaign for Billion and a Half Quart Goal.

By United Press.

Washington, September 6—The home canning army is going over the top! Every indication points to making the 1,500,000,000 quart goal set for this summer's objective.

Reports from the manufacturers of canning supplies who are conforming to recommendations of the United States Department of Agriculture, show a considerable increase in the output of equipment that saves time and labor in home canning. A 50 per cent increase is indicated this year in the number of firms that manufacture canning supplies and an average increase of 25 per cent in the quantity of equipment sold. Makers of standard quality rubber rings report a 300 per cent greater demand for their products since last year which indicates the housekeepers' growing appreciation of the importance of good rings, and means an ultimate reduction in spoilage.

Over 125 business concerns of various kinds have published the Department of Agriculture's instructions on home canning for free distribution to their customers and employees. The directions have also been translated into 10 different languages by agencies outside the department and are reaching the foreign-speaking families in nearly every State in the Union. Community canning kitchens are springing up rapidly to handle the large quantities of products from the war gardens.

NOW CALLED NICKEL-SILVER

Well-Known Metal Has Been Relieved From the Oblivion of Bearing a German Name.

One of the largest metal-handling concerns in this country has recently changed the name of the alloy heretofore known as German silver, and is now marketing this commodity as nickel-silver, and a publication devoted to the metal industry suggests that the word silver be eliminated entirely, as there is no silver in the combination. This publication says: "If the nickel is taken from an 18 per cent German silver alloy only a 'two and one' brass will remain. Why not then call the compound 'nickel-brass,' or, if commercial objections are too strong to be overcome at once, why not call it nickel alloy? The various contents of nickel may be designated by utilizing the different percentages that the alloy contains. Thus, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15, 18 per cent, etc., nickel-alloy. It is a fact that some manufacturers are already designating the material now being sold as 'Sheffield plate,' as 'silver-plate on a nickel base.' We see no reason why the same argument does not apply to the alloy being called nickel-silver."

350,000 INDIANA MEN ARE EXPECTED TO REGISTER

About 25 Percent of First Registrants Are Already Inducted Into Service.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 5.—Three hundred and fifty thousand Indiana men between the ages of 18 and 45 are expected to register for military service under the new manpower bill, according to estimates made today by the state conscription office.

When this registration is completed approximately 650,000 Indians will have enrolled for service. The first registration, June 5, 1917, resulted in 255,000 presenting themselves for enrollment. The second registration, a year later, brought out 19,620 more. On August 24, 1918, 4,140 more men registered.

About 25 percent of the first registrants are now in service. Many others volunteered or entered government work through some other channel. Fifty percent of those registered this year will see service, state authorities estimated.

COUNTY PROFITS BY DISTRIBUTION

To Receive $13,180.29 by First Semi-Annual Apportionment of Motor License Fees.

RECEIPTS SET NEW RECORD

Warrant Will be Forwarded to the County Treasurer This Week—Money for Highway Fund.

Jackson county will be enriched to the amount of $13,180.29 by the first semi-annual distribution of motor license fees by the state. The apportionment among the ninety-two counties has already been figured and the warrants will be sent to the county treasurers this week. The amount due this county is the largest ever received at one settlement and is more than the total received from the same source last year. Another distribution will be made after December 31 of the funds which are received during the last six months of the present year.

The total receipts by the state from owners of motor vehicles from January 1 to June 30 were $1,232,360.22, which includes the interest which has accrued. The expenses of maintaining the automobile license department during the period were $70,235.31 and $1,162,124.91 remained to be distributed among the counties.

The distribution is made in three separate funds. One-third of the total is divided among the counties of the state equally; one third, according to the gravel road mileage, and one third according to the license receipts. This county gets a big share of the fund on account of the large mileage of improved highways.

Last year the county received a total of $11,069.66 by the distributions. The share of the county for the first half of the year alone is in excess of the total received last year. The receipts of the automobile department have been increasing rapidly each year with the larger number of motor vehicles in use.

The largest previous total collected was in 1917, when the department received $1,109,113.26 for automobile licenses. The amount received in the first six months of this year is about three times that received in 1914 and more than twice the amount collected in 1915. Interest on the funds amounted to $8,038.57.

The bulk of the expense in operating the department was used for postage and license plates. The expense amounts to 5.68 per cent of the total revenues.

ADJUSTING MENTAL PROCESS TO THE WAR

American People Are Insisting That Everything Be Subordinate to Winning the War.

By Governor Gardner, of Missouri.

The people of this nation are firmly convinced of the absolute justice and stern necessity of the war we are now waging, and know full well that the perpetuity of our form of government and the preservation of those rights which the government guarantees them depend upon a decisive victory upon the battle field for the United States and her allies.

They realize the seriousness of the situation, the strength of their foe, and the enormous sacrifice of blood and treasure they must make in order to win such a victory. They stand ready to support the government, or the administration, in any measures which appear to them to be effective.

The chief aim of a belligerent nation is to assemble and make effective in the shortest time possible an amount of physical force requisite to prosecute the war to a successful termination; for the more vigorously a war is pursued the better it is for all engaged therein. As to those movements and measures relating to the prosecution of war, time is of supreme importance. The fate of a nation may hang upon an interval of an hour, a day, or a week.

In order to win the war with the minimum amount of friction, the people must adjust their mental processes to the extraordinary conditions that exist. In passing judgment upon a policy, they must not attempt to apply the tests appropriate in times of peace. Men must not be moved to capricious criticism because of personal inconveniences which they would under no circumstances be called upon to endure in times of peace. They must have always in mind the thought that the ultimate object of this war is a lasting peace; that the hardships must be endured in order that they may at the very earliest possible moment resume their normal manner of living, and enjoy again the privileges and blessings of a free government, at peace with all the world.

We must steel ourselves to endure without grumbling the hardships entailed by this war. We must possess our souls with infinite patience, and not indulge in capricious criticism. In forming or expressing an opinion relative to the manner in which the affairs of the nation are being conducted, we should resolve every doubt in favor of our government, and should not be influenced by personal or partisan ends.

The people throughout this section of America are "keeping the home fires burning." There is no difference of sentiment among them. They are determined to remain a unity in sentiment and in spirit.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Day, formerly of this city, were here this morning enroute to their home at North Vernon after attending the state fair at Indianapolis for several days.

FAIR PRICE LIST TO BE PUBLISHED

Guide To Be Prepared By Price Interpreting Board to Be Named by Food Administrator.

CHANGES TO BE MADE WEEKLY

Committee Will Give What in Its Opinion Are Minimum and Maximum Prices.

C. H. Weithoff, county food administrator, has announced that a "fair price" list will be issued from time to time in this county. The minimum and maximum prices of essential commodities will be designated by a price interpreting board appointed by the food administrator. Weekly changes will be made in the price recommendations.

The bulletin relative to the work of the new board follows:

Arrangements are being completed by C. H. Weithoff, County Food Administrator for the publication of a "fair price list" to be used as a guide for consumers in purchasing food commodities.

This list will be published each

A Coal Miner Thinks There Is No Remedy Like Vinol.

Belleville, Ill.—"I am a coal miner, I doctored for months for a chronic case of bronchitis with a terrible cough, sore chest, throat and lungs, so I could not work. I could get no relief until I tried Vinol. It stopped my cough and built up my strength and I feel better in every way."—Andrew J. Gray.

It is the healing, tissue building properties of fresh cods livers aided by the strengthening blood building elements of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in overcoming chronic cough, colds, and bronchitis. William H. Federmann and Druggists Everywhere.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson X. September 8

CONQUERING EVIL

1 Kings 21: 1-29; Eph. 5: 6-21

Golden Text—Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them. Eph. 5: 11

DEVOTIONAL READING—Romans 12: 21 to 13: 10.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FOR TEACHERS—Deuteronomy 9: 18; Psalms 94: 16; Luke 4: 1-13; 19: 41-48; Romans 7: 14; 8: 14; 11 Timothy 4: 2.

The robbery and murder of Naboth is one of the darkest of human deeds. Failure to recognize the righteousness of Naboth's position, and to master his own personal selfish desires, resulted in this dark deed.

I. A Notable Example of the Triumph of Evil (1 Kings 21: 1-29).

1. Ahab's covetousness (vv. 1-6).

Near the king's palace lay a plot of ground belonging to a simple farmer which Ahab selfishly longer for. Naboth, loyal to the law of God and exercising his personal rights, refused to part with it, though the king offered him what it was worth, or even a better one in exchange. With Naboth it was not a matter of money value, but of loyalty to God and his fathers. It doubtless would have been gain to him to have complied with Ahab's desire, for he offered its worth in money, or a better one in exchange. Naboth put principle before worldly gain, or even a reputation with the king. Ahab instead of conquering his selfishness sulkily refused to eat.

2. Jezebel's wicked plot (vv. 5-16).

When she found Ahab putting she took matters into her own hands. (1) She taunted Ahab (v. 7). A weak man cannot stand to be taunted, especially by a woman. (2) A mock trial given (vv. 8-13). The charge made against Naboth was false. They played the hypocrite. His death was secured under the pretense of justice. Jezebel desired Naboth out of the way, so she secured false witnesses against him. (3) He was stoned to death (v. 13). (4) Jezebel informs Ahab of Naboth's death, and instructs him to take possession of the vineyard (vv. 14-16).

3. The doom announced (vv. 17-26).

(1) By whom—Elijah (vv. 17, 18). At the command of the Lord, Elijah, who had fled from Jezebel, goes to meet the king as he entered upon the possession of Naboth's vineyard. He went to take possession but could not. God always finds a man to bring to the sinner the fruit of his wrongdoing. (2) What it was (vv. 19-26). (a) A shameful death (v. 19). The dogs were to lick his blood in the place where they licked the blood of Naboth. There is a retributive justice in the judgments which God metes out to sinners. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap" (Gal. 6: 7). Jezebel was to share a like fate. The sinner should be assured that his sin will find him out. (b) Obliteration of posterity (vv. 21, 22). It was best that the children of such a man should be cut off so that there might be an end to such a wicked dynasty. It would seem that the world has now come to such a state as this. The dynasty which is responsible for the blood and sorrow of the world at this time would better end and its posterity be obliterated from the earth.

4. Ahab's repentance (vv. 27-29).

Through his humiliation he gained a respite from judgment. God allowed him to go for awhile before he permitted the judgment to fall upon him. A few years later he was slain in the battle of Ramoth-Gilead (chapter 22: 37).

II. How to Overcome Evil (Eph. 11: 18).

1. By separation from it (v. 11). The only way to overcome evil is to refuse fellowship with it, to withdraw from it. Lot, who had entered into fellowship with the Sodomites, was overtaken with disaster; but Abraham, who was separated from it, was able to deliver him.

2. By reproof (v. 11). It is not enough to merely refrain from practicing evil. No neutral position is possible. There must be victory over it; it must be defeated. Antagonism of the evil is necessary.

3. By watchfulness (v. 14).

Living in the light of Christ is necessary in order to overcome evil. Deception is on every hand.

4. By a circumspect walk (vv. 15, 16).

Pitfalls are all about us. To walk without looking about us is most foolish, because the evil one is on the alert, doing his best to cause us to stumble.

5. By a sober life (v. 18).

6. By being filled with the Holy Spirit (v. 18).

Those who would overcome evil must abstain from intoxicating liquors and all the influences of the world which unduly excite.

The Spirit-filled believer has the wisdom and power to overcome.

week and changed from time to time as occasion demands.

The publication of the "fair price list" will be under the supervision of a price interpreting board to be appointed by the County Food Administrator.

This board will meet weekly or as often as occasion requires to interpret prices based on the current market prices of commodities.

It is not the intention of the Food Administration to fix prices on any given articles, but to have published a list of prices on the various commodities published.

The range of prices will be governed largely on the brand and quality of goods, on service rendered, and on scarcity or abundance of certain commodities.

It will be the policy of the Administration and the local board to encourage the use of substitutes and local vegetables and to emphasize the present program of the Food Administration.

during the day to place their seals on the blanks after they are filed. The local session was arranged by Dr. H. Lett, Republican county chairman, and C. W. Burkart, Democratic county chairman, who believed that in this way the task of registration could be expedited. While the official notice states that the board will be in session "continuously" at the court house both party leaders have agreed to waive any technicalities that may be presented as to registration. Two members of the board, representing both parties, will remain at Brownstown so that any voter who calls there may register.

Approximately one third of the voters of the county have failed to register. The time for enrollment is rapidly drawing to a close and unless the blanks are filed promptly many voters will find on election day that they are not qualified to cast their ballots. It has been suggested that the board hold a session at Crothersville and Freetown, but whether or not this is done will depend largely upon the results of the session here.

It is stated that this will be the only time the board will meet here and voters who do not register tomorrow will be required to either go to Brownstown or send their blanks by messenger or mail. By registering here any question as to precinct boundaries can be settled quickly as the registrars are familiar with the boundary precincts and much time will be saved.

By holding the registration session throughout the day men who are employed both during the day and at night will have opportunity to enroll. It was for the convenience of men who are employed during the daytime that the party chairmen agreed to a night session and the two members of the board consented to the longer session so that every voter would have opportunity to register.

Mrs. William Botting, of Washington, passed through here this morning on her way to Indianapolis where she will attend the state fair.

CHAPTER IV.

A Man Who Laughs.

"What will become of me?" wailed Mrs. Moore to Rosalie Le Grange. And Rosalie forebore at first to answer, for the ultimate destiny of Mrs. Moore appeared, indeed, black and uncertain. The police, having ransacked, measured, and photographed the Moore boarding-house to the limit of their imagination, announced after four days that Mrs. Moore might bring her establishment back. But when Mrs. Moore notified the boarders, she met—the expected. They would not come.

Rosalie Le Grange pulled out a chair and gently pushed Mrs. Moore into it. "Now let's talk this over sensible," she said. "It certainly does look as if I'd played it low on you, gettin' your boarders away. You can't blame me for offerin' my place that night. Neither can you blame me if they want to stay. I haven't asked them to. It hasn't occurred to you, I guess, that

TELLS HOW TO GET BACK OLD TIME AMBITION

Discoverer instructs druggists everywhere not to take a cent of anyone's money unless Bio-feren doubles energy, vigor and nerve force in two weeks.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

Any man or woman who finds that they are going backward, are not as strong as they used to be, have lost confidence in their ability to accomplish things, are nervous and run down should take two Bio-feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime. Seven a day for seven days. Then take one after each meal until the supply is exhausted. Then if your nervousness is not gone, if you do not feel twice as strong and energetic as before, if your sluggish disposition has not been changed to a vigorous active one, take back the empty package and your money will be returned without comment.

No matter what excesses, worry, overwork—too much tobacco or alcohol—have weakened your body and wrecked your nerves, any druggist anywhere is authorized to refund your money on request if Bio-feren, the mighty upbuilder of blood, muscle and brain does not do just what is claimed for it.

Note to Physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Peptonate; Manganese Peptonate; Ext. Nux Vomica; Powd. Gentian; Phenolphthalein; Oleoresin Capsicum; Kola.

I own this house and furniture. I haven't got any rent to pay. Moreover, with this Mrs. Hanska and Miss Lane, who came in unexpected, and some particular personal friends that are comin' next week, I'll be full up. Guess you can see how I make it pay."

Mrs. Moore flopped. "What will become of me!" she wailed.

"Now, Mrs. Moore," said Rosalie, "with the high rent they charged you for the old place, there was no future for you. You were bound to fail. I've got a better way. I'm so busy, and I'm goin' to be busier. You see this house—well, it ain't my only interest. An' jest at present I'm rushed to death. Goodness knows, standin' off reporters the way I've had to do this last week, is one woman's job. I've got to hire a housekeeper to look after things and tend front door and help out with the cleaning. How would you like that? Over there, you were carryin' the whole thing an' workin' for your board. Here, you'll get thirty-five a month, and I'll do the worryin'."

"Oh, Mrs. Le Grange!" wailed Mrs. Moore; and this time the moving emotion was gratitude.

So, at the end of a mighty anxious and perturbing week, the old Moore household settled down on Rosalie Le Grange, shook itself together again, and returned to the dull routine of its days.

The two new boarders—they were longest naturally in settling to the routine. Indeed, two or three days passed before the others grew acclimated to their thrilling and somewhat perturbing presence. But Constance and Betsy-Barbara behaved through a soul-racking week in such manner as to secure Rosalie's growing affections and to win the respect of the rest.

On the morning after the inquest, Constance quietly took her place at the common table in the dining-room. The rest of the boarders stilled their tongues for embarrassment. And not only embarrassment; undoubtedly there was prejudice. Rosalie, presiding at the head of the table, did not make the mistake of trying to lull this feeling immediately. She let matters take their course for two meals. At the third, she tactfully drew Constance into an argument over the distance to Paris. That served for an opening. Little by little, the sweetness of Constance, as exploited by Rosalie Le Grange, made its own way. What had been a kind of horror of a woman in her situation, became pity and sympathy.

As for Betsy-Barbara, that sprightly young person was popular from the first. She took hold of the Hanska-Wade case as though its settlement devolved upon her alone. Within three days she had interviewed every one in the house, from Mrs. Moore to Miss Estrilla, and had formed a half-dozen theories, all proving the innocence of Lawrence Wade. It mattered not that Rosalie, already her confidant, shattered all these bubbles. Betsy-Barbara would simply interview her witness again, and blow another. Constance was her daily and hourly care.

I leave to the newspapers the official events—"the developments" of that week. Indeed, they reported few essentials which we do not already know. The inquest was over; the body of Captain Hanska had traveled the road of flesh to the crematory; Lawrence Wade was held in the Tombs without bail, to await action of the Grand Jury. The evidence against him was circumstantial but strong. He had proposed marriage to Mrs. Hanska. Both he and his attorney tried to keep that out when Constance went on the stand; they lost, and she told the fact with a simplicity which filled columns and columns of space next morning. She insisted that he never mentioned marriage after she told him her story. Lawrence Wade, naturally, wanted a divorce. Captain Hanska had refused. There was the motive, perfect, comprehensible. Wade and Hanska had met twice before and quarreled both times. On the night of the tragedy, Lawrence Wade, carrying a hand-bag, had gone to Captain Hanska's room at about ten o'clock. The bag contained, among other things, two knives.

Lawrence Wade admitted this; and admitted also that he had left all the debris which littered Captain Hanska's table. "That was part of my errand," he said. He had gone from Mrs. Moore's to the Curfew Club, had found from the desk clerk that there was a one o'clock train to Boston, had telephoned for a berth, had taken the train, had been arrested in Boston while engaging passage for Liverpool. At half past two, Captain Hanska had been found dead—stabbed in the heart with a clean thrust by one of the very knives which Wade admitted bringing from Arden. The Coroner's physician testified that Hanska had been dead an hour, and probably longer. The knife traveled an upward course. He must have been stabbed standing. If so, the thrust came from the "front" of the murderer's hand—a fencer's blow. And there was no doubt that Wade was a fencer.

"What Will Become of Me?" She Wailed.

The putative defendant, although a lawyer himself, admitted all these facts except touching upon his relations with Mrs. Hanska. He volunteered the opinion that such a man deserved killing. On the night of the murder, he said, they had quarreled again. Hanska had refused all proposals. Thereupon he had taken that consignment of small possessions out of the bag, and had departed. On one point alone was he vague. He did not tell fully why he had started so suddenly for Europe. "I was afraid to stay," he said once. His attorneys intimated that he would explain this, also, if there were further proceedings. On this point, Constance committed her only indiscretion. It was that very afternoon when the feminine "sympathy writer" succeeded in reaching her. "I know why he did that," Constance told her, "and I'll tell you, if he won't. He could do me no further good and he was afraid of what he might do to Captain Hanska. He said before he left for New York that if he failed I might not see him for a long time."

And so the Coroner's jury found that John H. Hanska came to his death from a knife wound at the hand of Lawrence Wade or persons unknown, and recommended that the said Lawrence Wade be held to await action of the Grand Jury. He went back to the Tombs under guard.

Here and now, the corporeal presence of Lawrence Wade shall fade for a time from this story. You have, of course, concluded by this time that he is innocent. Perhaps you are right; the unfolding of this tale will tell. Leave him now in the Tombs, to play his own native resolution against the forces of darkness and to gather what consolation he may from the visits of his Lady of Sorrows and of her little golden girl-comrade.

FORTY-SIX NEW OFFICES ARE ADDED TO STATE HOUSE

Changes Were Provided by Last Legislature Which Appropriated Sum of $132,000 for Work.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, September 6—Forty-six new offices have been added to the state house and will be occupied at the end of the month. These were added through alterations to the present structure. New offices will be located in the basement.

The enlargement of the state house was provided for by the legislature which appropriated $132,000. This amount included an appropriation for putting a new heating and ventilating system in operation, in the house and senate chamber.

Twenty-one more vaults have been constructed in the basement and will be used by various state departments for filing important papers and documents.

The state council of defense which has occupied offices on the second floor but whose rooms will be needed this winter for the legislature, will be among the departments relegated to the basement.

Other changes include the moving of the public service commission to a compact group of offices to be constructed on the third floor of the south wing, now occupied by the state geologist and the museum. The offices of the commission now are scattered throughout the building.

Governor Goodrich was in personal charge of the remodeling. Custodian and Engineer Roscoe C. Schultz directed the work.

Discouraging Letters.

(By Caroline Tieknor of The Vigilantes.)

Are we, the women of this country, helping the Kaiser with our pens? We are assuredly, in every gloomy, worrisome depressing letter we send to dampen the spirits and take the heart out of a soldier in field or camp. If we do this, we are crippling the army of America and strengthening the enemy, even though we are knitting day and night, putting our money into Liberty Bonds and helping Hoover conscientiously.

In an enlightening article entitled "The Woman Behind the Soldier," Mrs. Rhinehart has offered the following report made after first-hand study of the facts:

"In one great army camp, 50,000 letters are received each day, nearly all written by women. A careful investigation has shown that one in five, or 10,000 letters a day in that one camp, are of the sort to take the very soul out of a man. And the investigation showed that on the day a man received a discouraged and peevish letter from home he was far below his normal efficiency."

Mrs. Rhinehart concludes that if a like proportion of this type of depressing letters are being sent to France, the writers are doing their part to sap the strength and courage of one-fifth of our forces. Is this a trifling aid to Germany, or is it not?

During the past twelve months it has been my privilege to read a great number of soldiers' letters, written by relatives, friends, and total strangers, as well as countless others reprinted by the daily press. In all of these I have not found a single one that did not breathe courage and cheer and helpfulness. The writers made the best of everything, they made light of their dangers, illness and hardships; they joked about the rats and vermin, the cold and wet, the manifold discomforts and deprivations. But never one complaint or murmur have I yet seen penned by a soldier. Apart from any regulations of the censor, it has been evident that every soldier is taking pains to send back home only that which will cheer those left behind.

Is it too much then to ask of wives and mothers, sisters and sweethearts that they shall refrain from putting petty worries, and gloomy foreboding, household annoyances into their letters, which are so vital a factor in the lives of the men who have gone out to stand between them and the German guns? No doubt there are thousands of lonely, anxious, tired, harassed women on this side of the water, but as yet they have suffered nothing when compared with their sisters across the seas, and yet the women of England are smiling, the women of France are smiling and even the women of Belgium are smiling through their tears.
